PREFACE

THE trend of thought during the last thirty years with regard to the teaching of Latin has been steadily in the direction of greater simplification in requirements. The beginner's books have become more and more books introductory to the study of Caesar. All unessentials in form and syntax have been rigidly excluded; the vocabulary, likewise, has been taken almost entirely from Caesar and has been steadily restricted in amount. It may be said without fear of rebuke that the aim of the first-year work in Latin has become more and more definite. During the subsequent years this principle of definiteness in requirement has not been kept so closely in view, and in one respect particularly there has been no evidence of progress, namely in the treatment of vocabulary. And yet without a knowledge of words reading is impossible. President Butler in The Meaning of Education, p. 175, says: "The proper aim of classical instruction at this period [he is referring to the secondary schools] is stated with clearness and force . . . by the Prussian Minister of Public Instruction. . . . 'So far as the end to be attained by a knowledge of language is concerned, it is hardly necessary to adduce arguments to justify the proposition that the acquisition of a vocabulary is of at least as much importance as familiarity with grammatical details. For it is just by means of this vocabulary that satisfaction is gained as facility in reading is acquired; by means of it, too, interest in reading extends beyond the period of school life.' "

But the acquisition of vocabulary presupposes a knowledge of what vocabulary is of most value, and it is in this that our teaching has been handicapped up to the present time. Nearly a century ago Professor Fleckeisen prepared a Latin vocabulary arranged in five groups according to the frequency of occurrence, and that book is still in use in Germany and elsewhere. There have been other similar attempts, but little has been done in this country until very recently. Our habit has been to read Caesar, Cicero, and Vergil, with the hope that by constant thumbing of the lexicon the student may gradually acquire the command of a certain vocabulary. In fact in many quarters any attempt to teach vocabulary itself has been frowned upon as a waste of mental energy. But experience has proven that most students taught after this fashion obtain very little actual ability in reading Latin.

The aim of the present book is to set forth the complete vocabulary of Caesar de bello Gallico, books I-V; Cicero, the six orations usually read in schools; and Vergil's Æneid, books I-VI. Statistics are given of the number of times every word occurs, and a selection of 2000 words has been made, comprising with few exceptions the words of most frequent occurrence, arranged so that they can be taught at the rate of so many per year. The total number of words in this list is 4650. Of these 849 occur in all three authors, 368 are found in Caesar and Cicero only, 385 in Caesar and Vergil, 363 in Cicero and Vergil, while 508 belong wholly to Caesar, 546 to Cicero, 1,618 to Vergil. 1347 words occur but once, divided thus: 261 in Caesar, 329 in Cicero, 757 in Vergil. 691 words occur twice, 97 in Caesar only, 120 in Cicero, 330 in Vergil, the remainder divided between two authors. 373 words occur three times, 277 four times; leaving 1954 words which occur five times or more. The total number of word occurrences is 77,142, of which the words occurring less than five times (4956) make up less than seven per cent.

Several interesting results accrue from these figures. The number of words occurring five times or more is surprisingly small. Furthermore these words are the essential words in the Latin language; for examination of a relatively equal amount of material selected from Caesar's Civil War, Cicero's Orations, other than those read in schools, and Ovid, showed the occurrence of more than nine tenths of these words. The other tenth was made up largely of technical words and peculiarities. It is important to notice that the total vocabulary of Caesar and Cicero is approximately the same, Caesar 2106, Cicero, 2117; that of Vergil is 3214. Of the total vocabulary of Caesar, more than 1200 appear in the list of 2000. It therefore appears that the practice of beginners' books in confining their vocabulary mainly to Caesar is abundantly justified. Inasmuch as the ordinary high school course consists of four years, I have divided this list into three parts of approximately 1000, 500, and 500 words. The 1000 words printed in bold-faced type contain the words of most frequent occurrence in Caesar. They should be learned by the end of the Caesar year, 500 having probably been learned during the first year. The 500 words printed in large Roman type are found most often or first in Cicero and should be learned by the end of the third year. The remaining 500 words, printed in small capitals, should be learned by the end of the Vergil year.

A student who has at his command these 2000 words will have the vocabulary of fully nine tenths of all the ordinary Latin that he is likely to come into contact with. He will really have much more, because the remaining tenth contains a large proportion of compounds of words already known.

Now the final step in securing the definiteness in high school teaching that is so necessary is for the colleges to insist upon the ability to read Latin at sight with fair accuracy, and, with this end in view, to demand the knowledge of a limited number of words of common occurrence, other words to be explained in foot-notes to the passages set. Teachers will then know just what to expect and the reading and marking of sight papers will easily be reduced to scientific accuracy.

A few words of explanation as to the plan of this book seem necessary. Inasmuch as the words occurring five times or more include a small percentage of words peculiar to the authors of subjects chosen, I have included among the numbered words only those which experience has shown to be of universal value. I have added, in order to make up 2000 in round numbers, a certain number of words that occur less often than five times, and eight words that are not found at all. These are gracilis and seven numerals, that were necessary for brief but systematic treatment of the numerals. Of the remainder, some have been added for grammatical reasons, because it is simpler to learn a complete list than to omit one or two; some because study of other authors shows them to be important; a few because they are identical in form with words included and consequently are best learned together with their homonyms. The quantities have been marked in the rubrics only, and some finals usually long have been left unmarked. Genders have been given only when the words did not fall readily under rules of common application.

It is not to be expected that every one will approve this selection, nor is it to be expected that the division into three groups will satisfy every one, but no one can complain that he has not at hand the material for making his own list, for the number of occurrences is always given as well as the first occurrence.

Every effort has been made in the direction of consistency and accuracy, but the work has extended over several years, the type-setting and proof-reading have been extremely laborious, and, in despite of three verifications of references, it would be too much to hope that some errors have not crept in.

In an appendix the vocabulary is arranged in the order of occurrence, and the identity of type with that used in the body of the book makes it possible to see the value of the word at once.

So far as the method of teaching is concerned, I can do no more than suggest as worth trying the plan that I pursue myself. I give to my classes at the end of every lesson the words in this list that are to be found in the next lesson, with the number attached. They write them in a note-book numbered from one to 2000. They are under promise to use no dictionary but the one that is being made by themselves. The other words, being unimportant, I supply the meanings of, and I find great satisfaction in the results. There are, however, many ways in which such a vocabulary can be taught, and most teachers need no instruction on this matter.

I am under great obligations to Mr. Charles M. Baker of the Horace Mann School, Miss Susan Fowler of the Brearley School, and Miss Theodora Ethel Wye of Teachers College for assistance in the preparation of the manuscript. To Miss Wye are also due the thanks of all who may use the book for her unwearied patience in proof-reading and the verification of references.

INTRODUCTION.

FORMATION OF WORDS.

1. The fundamental elements of Latin words are roots. These were not very numerous and were probably all monosyllables. It is often very difficult to decide with certainty the root of a word, although we do know the roots of most.

2. In the majority of Latin words a suffix indicating some variety of meaning has been added to the root. This combination of root and suffix is called stem; and it is not difficult to decide what that is. It is only when we come to separate the root from the stem that the difficulty occurs.

3. Many of the suffixes were in active use when the Latin literature was being produced. Accordingly a Roman could make any number of words on the instant, just as we can in English.

4. To the root or stem various terminations were added to give the various forms of inflection and conjugation by which the words were combined into sentences.

5. If the termination was added directly to the root the word was called a primitive word; if however the termination was added to a stem formed by means of a suffix the word was called derivative or secondary.

6. In the early times the needs of men were probably satisfied by words formed directly from the root or stem. These were called simple words; as, sōl, sun; stāre, stand, stay.

But later it was found convenient to combine two or even more roots or stems into one word. This was called a compound word; as, sōl-stitiu-m, sunstaying, solstice.

PARTS OF SPEECH.

7. The words forming the Latin vocabulary fall naturally into four classes or parts of speech: pronouns, nouns, verbs, and particles. For convenience some of these classes have been subdivided, but this subdivision rests on no genuine basis of meaning.

8. Pronouns.

Pronouns are among the very earliest words that language developed. The other early words were a few nouns, chiefly nouns of relationship, as father, mother, and a few essential verbs, as be, go, and eat.

9. Nowadays we define pronoun as a "word used in place of a noun." This is a very old definition and is really nothing more than a translation of the word pronoun. Properly however the great majority of nouns were introduced to take the place of pronouns. For in ordinary speech it is customary even still to address and speak of people by means of pronouns and use the nouns only for purposes of distinction. Accordingly, the correct definition of a pronoun is a word that "points out or designates, but does not describe," as opposed to the noun which "describes, but does not point out."

10. Noun.

The ordinary definition of a noun as a "name of a person, place, or thing" is really meaningless, because noun is the same word as name. The correct definition is, as we have seen, a word that "describes but does not point out." Now we may describe by giving a permanent characteristic as we do when we say man; or by giving a transient characteristic as we do when we say good. In the former case we call the noun substantive, i. e. a noun that can stand by itself; in the latter case we call the noun adjective, i. e. a noun that must be added to some other noun.

11. There was originally no genuine distinction between these two classes of words, except that which was inherent in the roots or ideas themselves. This is shown by the fact that the oldest suffixes are used to form both substantives and adjectives, and that many words even when we meet the Latin literature are used in either way according to the author's pleasure. Thus bonus is either good, or good man; while bonum is either good, or good thing; even in English we speak of goods. Amicus is usually rendered friend, but it is really friendly; servus, slave, is really serving (man); fluvius, river is really flowing.

In fact it is a recognized principle of Latin grammar that any adjective can be used as a substantive. Accordingly as an adjective is just as much a noun as a substantive, the term "noun," in this book, includes both substantives and adjectives.

12. Verb.

The verb is properly a word that "says something about a noun." It is therefore essentially transient in its nature and is not permanent or fixed. The noun on the other hand is something that is permanent or fixed. Hence it is quite simple to have the same idea (or root) appearing in the form of a noun or a verb. On the other hand many ideas of course are by their nature restricted to one or the other side.

In actual usage accordingly we find verbs made from nouns, nouns made from verbs in the greatest profusion.

13. Particles.

The particles are those elements of language that have developed either from or outside of the three groups above mentioned. They comprise :

Adverbs, which come almost entirely from nouns and pronouns.

Prepositions, which are mainly words of direction.

Conjunctions, which are used to connect ideas, and are partly original, partly made from pronouns.

Interjections, which are merely expressions of feeling.

The following paragraphs will take up the above groups in order, to show the varieties in each.

FORMATION OF PRONOUNS.

14. * The only pronouns that come under consideration here are the indefinite pronouns. These are formed from the interrogative-relative pronouns (a) by combination with a prefix, (b) by reduplication, (c) by the addition of a suffix, (d) by composition, as follows:

a. Prefix.

Interrogative pronouns are made indefinite by the prefix ali- (alius, other) as ali-quis, some one, any one from quis. Cf. English somewhat.

b. Reduplication.

Interrogative pronouns are made indefinite (or generic) by doubling, as quisquis, whoever, from quis.

c. Suffix.

Interrogative or relative pronouns are made indefinite by various suffixes:

-que: quisque, every one, from quis.

-quomque (loc. of quisque): quicumque, whoever, from quī.

-quam (loc. from quī): quisquam, any one, from quis.

-dam (derivation uncertain): quidam, a certain one, from quī.

-pīam (derivation uncertain): quispīam, some one, from quis.

d. Composition.

Relative pronouns are made indefinite by composition with a verb form:

-libet (it pleases): quīlibet, any one you please, from quī.

-vis (thou wishest): quīvis, any one you wish, from quī.

FORMATION OF NOUNS (SUBSTANTIVE AND ADJECTIVE).

15. Root substantives.

A few substantives are formed directly from roots without suffix; there are three varieties:

a. Those with weak root:

Dux (duc-s), leader, from root duc, lead.

b. Those with strong root:

Lūx (luc-s), light, from root lūc, light.

c. With reduplication:

Car-cer, jail, from uncertain root; mar-mor, marble, from root mar, shine.

16. Primitive and derivative nouns.

Most substantives and all adjectives are formed by means of suffixes. These suffixes are either primitive or secondary. A primary suffix is one added to a root or a verb stem to form primitive words. A secondary suffix is one used in the formation of derivative words. Thus, -tor in scrip-tor is a primary suffix; -tās in vetus-tās is secondary.

The most important suffixes follow.

17. Agent.

Nouns of agency (nōmina agentis) are formed by adding to verb stems the suffix -tor or -sor (masc.) and -trīx (fem.).

amā-tor, lover, from amo, love.

dēfēn-sor, defender, from dēfendo, defend.

vic-trīx, conqueress, from vinco, conquer.

NOTE.—Sometimes the verb from which the agent is made is not found: gladiā-tor, swordsman, from (gladio, handle a sword, from) gladius, sword.

18. Action or activity.

Nouns of action, or activity (nomina actionis) are formed by adding to verb stems the suffixes -or (masc.), -tio (fem.), -tus (masc.), and occasionally, by extension, -tium (neut.):

am-or, love; compare amo, love (which also makes amātio).

auditio, hearing, from audio, hear.

adventus, arrival, from advenio, arrive.

servitium, slavery, from servio, serve.

Less common suffixes are: -īna, -tīna, -trūra (-sūra), -do.

rap-īna, robbery, from rapio, seize.

doc-trīna, teaching, from doceo, teach.

pic-tūra, painting, from pingo, paint.

cupī-do, desire, from cupio, desire.

19. Event or thing accomplished.

The event or thing accomplished is indicated by adding to verb stems the suffixes: -men or -mentum, both neuter:

āg-men, train, from ago, drive.

tor-mentum, torture, from torqueo, twist.

Less common is the suffix -mōnium:

queri-mōnium, complaint, from queror, complain.

20. Instrument or means.

The instrument or means is indicated by adding to verb stems the suffixes -trum or -culum, both neuter.

rōs-trum, beak, from rōdo, gnaw.

pō-culum, cup; compare pōto, drink.

Less common is the suffix -ulus, -ula.

cap-ulus, handle, from capio, take hold.

21. Abstracts.

Abstract substantives are formed by adding to adjective stems the suffixes -ia, -(i)tia, -(i)tās, -(i)tūdo, all feminine.

audāc-ia, boldness, from audāx, bold.

amīci-tia, friendship, from amicus, friendly.

aequi-tās, fairness, from aequus, fair.

pulchri-tūdo, beauty, from pulcher, beautiful.

Less common is the suffix -tūs.

iuven-tūs, youth, from iuvenis, young.

22. Office.

Office is indicated by adding to the verb stem the suffix -tūra, or to the noun stem the suffix -ātus.

dictā-tūra, dictatorship, from dictāre, dictate.

cōsul-ātus, consulship, from cōsul, consul.

magistr-ātus, magistracy, from magister, master.

23. Locality.

Locality is indicated by adding to the verb stem the suffixes -crum (neut.) or -trīna (fem.).

lavā-crum, bath, from lavo, bathe.

su-trīna, cobbler shop, from suo, sew.

Less common is -īna, added to noun stems.

offic-īna (i. e. opificīna), workshop, from opifex, artisan.

24. Diminutives.

Diminutives are formed by adding to noun stems:

a. -lus, -la, before which a liquid is assimilated.

agel-lus, little field, from ager, field.

b. -olus, -ola, -ulus, -ula. Of these -olus, -ola is found after e, i, and v; otherwise -ulus, -ula:

fili-olus, little son, from filius, son.

alb-ulus, whitish, from albus, white.

c. -colus, -cola, after e, i, u, and consonant stems.

opus-culum, little work, from opus, work.

25. Adjectives of activity and capacity.

Adjectives of activity and capacity are formed by adding to the verb stem the suffixes:

a. -bundus or -cundus to express general activity.

cunctā-bundus, tarrying, from cunctor, tarry.

irā-cundus, prone to wrath, from irāscor, grow angry.

b. -ulus to express repeated activity.

crēd-ulus, quick to believe, from crēdo, believe.

c. -ilis or -bilis, to express passive activity.

doc-ilis, teachable, from doceo, teach.

amā-bilis, lovable, from amo, love.

26. Tendency.

Tendency is indicated by adding to verb stems the suffix -āx.

rap-āx, greedy, from rapio, seize.

27. Connection or association.

Adjectives meaning belonging to or connected with are formed by adding to noun stems a large variety of suffixes.

-ius:

imperātōrius, belonging to a general, from imperātor, general.

-icus:

belli-cus, warlike, from bellum, war.

-icius:

aedilicius, belonging to an aedile, from aedīlis, aedile.

-ālis:

rēg-ālis, royal, from rēx, king.

-īlis

cīvi-lis, civil, from cīvis, citizen.

-āris:

cōsul-āris, consular, from cōsul, consul.

-ārius:

argent-ārius, money-changer, banker; argent-āria, silver mine, bank, from argentum, silver.

-nus:

pater-nus, fatherly, from pater, father.

-ānus:

hūm-ānus, human, from homo, human being.

-īnus:

mar-īnus, marine, from mare, sea.

-īvus:

aest-īvus, summery, from aestās, summer.

-ēnsis:

circ-ēnsis, belonging to a circus, from circus, circus.

28. Material.

Material is indicated by adding to a noun stem the suffixes

-eus:

aur-eus, golden, from aurum, gold.

-neus:

ae-neus, brazen, from aes, bronze.

-icius:

later-icius, of brick, from later, brick.

29. Fulness.

Fulness is indicated by adding to the noun stem the suffixes

-ōsus:

animō-sus, spirited, from animus, spirit.

-lentus:

turbu-lentus, confused, from turbo, confusion.

30. Time is indicated by adding to temporal adverbs or noun stems the suffixes -ernus, -urnus, -ternus, -tīnus.

hodi-ernus, to-day's, from hodiē, to-day.

noct-urnus, by night, from nōx, night.

hes-ternus, yesterday's, from herī, yesterday.

mātū-tīnus, of the morning, from Mātūta, goddess of the morning.

31. Proper adjectives are formed by the suffixes -ānus, -iānus, -īnus, -icus, -ius, -ēnsis, -aeus. Examples are:

Rôm-ânus, Varrôn-iânus, Amer-înus, Germân-icus, Thrâcius, Athêni-ênsis, Smyrn-aeus.

FORMATION OF VERBS.

32. Root verbs.

There are but few primitive or root verbs in Latin and they fall into two, perhaps three, classes.

a. Those in which the terminations are added directly to the root. These embrace most of the forms of the verbs, sum, I am, edo, I eat, eo, I go, fero, I bear, volo, I wish, and perhaps do, I give; and their compounds.

b. Those in which the terminations are connected with the root by a vowel called the thematic or stem vowel i. These are found only in the third conjugation.

c. A few inchoative verbs seem to be formed by the addition of the inchoative suffix directly to the root.

33. Derivative verbs.

Derivative verbs are of three classes: (a) Those derived from nouns are called denominative verbs. (b) Those derived from other verbs are called verbals. (c) Inchoatives, formed either from nouns or verbs.

34. Denominatives.

Denominatives are found most commonly in the first conjugation, even when the stem vowel of the noun is -i or -u. A few, however, belong to the other conjugations.

1. Of the first conjugation:

acervâ-re, heap up, from acervus, heap.

corônâ-re, wreath, from corôna, wreath.

levâ-re, lighten, from levis, light.

nôminâ-re, name, from nômen, nôminis, name.

2. From the second conjugation:

albē-re, be white, from albus, white.

flôrē-re, be in bloom, from flôs, flower.

lûcē-re, be light, from lûx, light.

3. From the third conjugation:

argue-re, be bright, hence prove.

laede-re, hurt.

metue-re, be in fear, from metus, fear.

4. From the fourth conjugation:

cûstôdi-re, guard, from cûstôs, cûstôdis, guard.

fini-re, finish, from finis, limit.

lêni-re, soften, from lênis, soft.

vesti-re, clothe, from vestis, clothing.

NOTE.—Often the noun is itself a derivative from a verb stem: rêgnâ-re, reign, from rêgnum, rule, from rego, govern.

35. Verbals.

Verbals are divided into various classes, according to their meanings, as follows:

Frequentatives or intensives.

Causatives.

Desideratives.

Meditatives.

36. Frequentatives or Intensives.

Frequentative or intensive verbs denote repeated or intense action. They belong to the first conjugation, and are formed by adding -to (-so) or -tito (-sito) to the verb stem. A simpler rule is to take the supine stem as the stem of the frequentative.

curso, run frequently, from curro, run (sup. cursum).

pulso, drive vigorously, from pello, drive (sup. pulsum).

dormito, sleep soundly, from dormio, sleep (sup. dormitum).

cantito, sing often, from cano, sing (sup. cantum).

In a few verbs the suffix -ito is added to the present stem ag-ito, drive vigorously, from ago, drive.

voc-ito, call often, from voco, call.

37. Causatives.

Causative verbs signify the effecting of the condition indicated by the original verb. They are found mainly in the second conjugation, and show usually a change in the stem-vowel.

a. Vowel change.

cado, fall,

caedo, cause to fall, fell.

placeo, please,

placo, appease.

neco, kill,

noceo, be death to, harm.

b. No change.

fugio, flee,

fugo, put to flight.

iacio, throw,

iaceo, be thrown, lie.

pendo, weigh,

pendeo, hang.

38. Desideratives.

Desiderative verbs denote desire or tendency. They are all of the fourth conjugation and are formed by adding -tūrio (-surio) to the stem, as seen in the supine.

39. Meditatives.

Meditative verbs look forward to an action. They comprise five verbs with the present stem ending in -esso:

arcesso, arcessere, arcessivī, arcessitum.

capesso, capessere, capessivī, capessitum.

facesso, facessere, facessivī, facessitum.

incesso, incessere, incessivī, incessitum.

laccio, laccessere, laccessivī, laccessitum.

40. Inchoatives.

Inchoative verbs indicate entrance upon an action. They all belong to the third conjugation, and are formed by adding to the stem the suffix -sco (-scor). There are three main classes: root inchoatives, denominatives, and verbals.

41. Root Inchoatives.

These are formed from roots or obsolete verb stems. They have mostly lost their inchoative sense. They are:

crēsko, crēscere, crēvī, crētum, increase.

dī-sco, dīscere, didicī, learn.

nō-sco, nōscere, nōvī, nōtum, become acquainted with.

pā-sco, pāscere, pāvī, pāstum, feed.

quiē-sco, quiēscere, quiēvī, quiētum, rest.

pō-sco, pōscere, popōscī, demand.

suē-sco, suēscere, suēvī, suētum, accustom one's self.

Also the unfrequent fatī-sco, hī-sco.

42. Denominative Inchoatives.

These are formed from noun stems. They are found only in the present system and are rare in the uncompound form.

ob-dūrē-sco, -ere, grow hard, from dūrus, hard.

pūbē-sco, -ere, grow up, from pūbēs, youth.

43. Verbal Inchoatives.

These are formed from verb stems. They are found only in the present system, and have sometimes taken the place of the simple verb, especially in compounds of the second conjugation.

con-cupī-sco, -ere, long for, from cupio, desire.

con-valē-sco, -ere, grow strong, from valeo, be strong.

sci-sco, -ere, seek to know; then enact, from scio, know.

COMPOSITION OF NOUNS AND VERBS.

44. By composition words are so put together that a new word is made with a signification of its own. The second word is regularly the fundamental word, the first the modifier.

The composition of pronouns has already been treated. That of nouns and verbs follow.

COMPOUND NOUNS (SUBSTANTIVE AND ADJECTIVE).

45. Composition Improper.

The composition is said to be improper when traces of the construction still remain, or the first part is still inflected.

ē-gregius (from ē grege), out of the crowd, distinguished.

lēgis-lātor, law-giver, from lēx and lātor.

NOTE.—Many of these compounds have become inflected; so ē-gregius: see above.

prō-cōnsul, proconsul, from prō cōnsule.

trium-vir, triumvir, from trium virum (gen. plural).

46. Composition Proper.

The composition is proper when the coalescence is complete. There are various forms:

47. Combination of a particle and an adjective or substantive. The particles are:

ā- privative,	ā-mēns , without mind.
dē- privative,	dē-mēns , out of mind.
in- privative,	in-sānus , insane, unhealthy.
ne- privative,	ne-fas , wrong (not right).
per- intensive,	per-multus , very much. prae- intensive,	prae-clārus , very famous.
vē- privative,	vē-sānus , unhealthy, mad.

48. The parts are a substantive and a verb stem. Here various vowel changes occur in the first part.

a. Vowel stems in a, o, u regularly weaken those vowels to i before consonants, and then sometimes drop the i.

causi-dicus, pleader, from causa and dīco.
signi-fer, standard-bearer, from signum and fero.
corni-ger, horn-wearer, from cornū and gero.
man-ceps, taker in hand, from manus and capio.

b. Vowel stems in i retain the i or drop it.

igni-vomus, fire-vomiting, from ignis and vomeo.
nau-fragus, shipwrecked, from nāvis and frango.

c. Consonant stems either drop the consonant or add i.

lapi-cīda, stone-cutter, from lapis and caedo.
mātri-cīda, matricide, from mater and caedo.

49. The parts are an adjective and a substantive stem. Here vowel stems drop the vowel before a following vowel, or change it to i before a consonant.

māgn-animus, great-souled, from māgnus and animus.
miseri-cors, tender-hearted, from miser and cor.

COMPOUND VERBS.

50. Composition Improper.

The composition is said to be improper when a verb is added to a verb, substantive, or adverb.

A verb is only combined with a verb stem when the second part is facio or fio. The first part is regularly an intransitive of the second conjugation.

calē-facio, facere, make warm, from caleo and facio.

When the verb is combined with a substantive the substantive has various forms according to its stem.

anim-adverto, take notice, from animus and adverto.

manū-mitto, let go from the hand, set free, from manus and mitto.

ūsū-capio, acquire by use, from usus and capio.

When the verb is added to an adverb, the adverb is usually, but not always, unchanged:

bene-dico, bless, from bene and dīco.

male-dico, curse, from male and dīco.

satis-facio, satisfy, from satis and facio.

but

mālo, prefer, from mage (magis) and volo.

nōlo, be unwilling, from nē and volo.

51. Composition Proper.

The composition is said to be proper when the verb is combined with prepositions. These are of two kinds, inseparable and separable.

52. The inseparable prepositions are:

ambi-, around, about, before vowels usually amb, before consonants usually ambi, but occasionally am- and before c, q, h, f, t, it appears as an.

amb-io, go about; am-plector, enfold.

an-hēlo, draw a deep breath.

dis- apart. Unchanged before c, p, q, t, s; becomes dif- before f otherwise loses its s and appears as di-; before vowels it becomes dir-.

dis-curro, run apart.

dif-fero, bear apart, put off.

di-gero, carry apart, divide.

dir-imo, take apart, sever (from emo).

por-, a variation of pro, forth.

por-tendo, hold forth, portend.

red-, re-, back.

red-do, give back.

re-stituo, put back, restore.

sē-iūngo, disjoin, separate.

53. The separable prepositions have much the same significations in composition that they had when construed with various cases.

Examples are:

ab-eo, go away.

ad-eo, come up.

ante-curro, run in advance.

com-pōno, put together.

dē-curro, run down, finish a course.

ex-cēdo, overstep.

in-clūdo, shut in.

ob-dūco, draw over.

per-venio, come through, arrive.

post-habeo, keep behind.

prae-dīco, foretell.

praeter-eo, pass by.

prō-d-eo, go forth.

sub-icio, throw under.

subter-fugio, flee from under.

super-sum, be over.

trāns-gredior, pass beyond.

FORMATION OF PARTICLES.

54. Of the particles the prepositions and interjections do not require special treatment. They are almost all primitive words. A certain number of the adverbs and conjunctions have, however, certain peculiarities of formation that deserve mention.

55. Adverbs.

Most adverbs are oblique cases of nominal or pronominal stems. But some are formed by termination, as follows:

- a. -tim, an accusative formation, perhaps originating with partim, partly.

nōminātim, by name, from nōminātus, named.

NOTE.—Disguised forms of this termination are found in words like passim, here and there, from pando, spread, vicissim, in turns, etc.; also interim.

- b. -ter, added to stems of adjectives and participles of the third declension:

forti-ter, bravely, from fortis, brave.

prūden-ter, prudently, from prūdēns, prudent (i. e. providens).

- c. -iter is sometimes appended to adjectives of the second declension. Those in -tus add -er only.

hūmāni-ter, humanely, from hūmānus, humane.

turbulen-ter, riotously, from turbulentus, riotous.

- d. -tus, added to some substantival or adjectival stems, forms adverbs of origin.

divīni-tus, from the gods, from divīnus, godly.

rādīci-tus, from the roots, from rādīx, root.

- e. -versus, -versum, appended to other adverbs, shows direction whither.

prōrsus, -um, onwards, from prō, before.

rursus, -um, backwards, from re, back.

56. Conjunctions.

Most conjunctions are mutilated forms of pronominal stems.

A few are formed by reduplication or composition, as follows:

quam-quam, although, from quam, how.

ante-quam, prius-quam, before.

post-quam, after.

tam-quam, just as.

quam-vīs, however you wish, although.

qua-si, as if, for quam sī.

sīc-ut, just as.

vel-ut, even as.

etc.
